Murray session

Dublin, Pleasanton school dilemma

The Murray School District board of trustees will hold an emergency session at noon today to evaluate the status of negotiations with teachers. If no settlement on salary and fringe benefits is arrived at, teachers are expected to boycott all extra duties starting Monday morning.

Bob Kroetch, Murray Teachers Association president, said the eight items teachers would withhold services from include, building faculty meetings, response to district notices, educationally handicapped and Early Childhood Education meetings lasting beyond the regular school hours, parent conferences, after school student activities, district level meetings and field trips.

Kroetch said he and other MTA representatives would be on-call through this afternoon and even into the weekend in the event a negotiations session can be held towards affecting a settlement.

Though claiming teachers and administration, as represented by counsel Keith Breon, were not that far apart, Kroetch said their was some misunderstanding as to what had been agreed to.

He said the work-day calendar (181 days) and binding arbitration of grievances were dependent on agreement on the salary portion.

According to Heinz Gewing, assistant superintendent for the Murray district, teachers made an offer of 8.2 per cent increase on the salary schedule and 4.5 per cent step and column increases for a total of 12.7 per cent.

The board countered with an offer of 4 per cent on the salary schedule, 1.2 per cent increase for fringe benefits and 4.5 per cent for step and column advances—a total of 9.7 per cent.

In a flyer sent out to teachers Wednesday morning, the MTA quoted Breon as saying (in response to the teachers' counter proposal), "there is no need to take this to the board, they will not accept it. Cost of living does not hold water for teachers except those at the top of the schedule."

Breon, who also serves as counsel for the Amador, Pleasanton and San Ramon districts in the valley, was alleged to have said, "We have to hit an ending point some time," in reference to the seeming impasse in negotiations.

At the bottom of the flyer, teachers were urged to "support the boycott."

The Murray board is expected to receive an update on negotiations, settlement or not, at Monday's board meeting at Cronin School. The meeting convenes at 8 p.m.

Amador's teachers may vote

Amador Valley Joint High School District teachers may vote today to go to minimum duty Monday.

At the same time, Pleasanton Joint School District teachers will ask their negotiators to return to the bargaining table to try and affect a contract settlement as soon as possible—apparently without any option to boycott staffing of extracurricular activities or minimum duty.

A negotiation session was held Thursday and another was tentatively set for today in the Amador Valley Joint High School District contract dispute.

The Amador district includes Dublin High, Amador Valley High, Foothill High and Valley Continuation.

Jim Eaton, spokesman for the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (the high school district teachers), said the two groups are split on the question of binding arbitration and an agency shop, as well as salaries.

If no settlement is forthcoming today, the high school teachers are expected to go to minimum duty on Monday morning. This would mean

Lawyer ties drug use to Dublin murders

LIVERMORE — Shacked Barry Braeseke stood quietly before Municipal Judge Al Lewis yesterday as defense attorney James L. Crew entered his client's plea:

"Not guilty as to all counts!" Braeseke, 20, is accused of murdering his father, mother and grandfather in their Dublin home August 23.

A preliminary hearing has been set for 2 p.m., Oct. 18.

Apparently pinning his hopes on a "diminished capacity" finding by a jury, Crew laid the groundwork for a defense which may show Braeseke had been under the influence of drugs and was not able to premeditate the murder.

Judge Lewis granted his motion of discovery, which would provide the defense with records of blood tests, copies of statements and notations of sobriety observations by police.

After the brief court appearance, Crew told the press Braeseke had been using the animal tranquilizer PCP for at least six months.

That drug "causes people to do bizarre things," he said, recalling an incident in Hayward when "two kids drowned another while under PCP."

He speculated Braeseke acquired the drug in Hayward.

"The user builds up a residue in the system and one day something goes," said Crew. "That's why they call it Rocket Fuel."

"It's the only thing that explains what happened," he said.

Dora Schoeder, service director for the Dublin Hotline (a community-based drug and alcohol center) told the Times PCP does cause cellular damage to the brain.

"With prolonged use, it can cause a difference in being able to use judgement and logic," she said. "It is difficult to tell the long range effects because so little research is available."

Crew told the press "if a person has his awareness altered, it could reduce the crime from first degree murder to second degree murder."

First degree is a capital offense, punishable by death. Second degree murder carries a five year to life sentence.

Asked about the possibility of an insanity plea, the defense attorney said Braeseke is upset and remorseful, but "it seems to me he's not insane."

He said preliminary talks with a psychiatrist and a psychologist indicated no mental illness.

Crew indicated hopes the district attorney would agree with his speculation about the alleged PCP-induced diminished capacity and would recommend charges of second degree murder.

He noted the lesser plea would be acceptable to him, but the judge would have to approve the findings and ask for a presentencing report.

Although he has seen the police reports, Crew told the press "they don't have everything the tapes have," referring to tape recorded interrogations of the prisoner.

He questioned whether the statements Braeseke reportedly made to police about his involvement in the case were "free and voluntary."

"He was advised of his basic rights, but was also told that it would be better that he made a statement," said Crew.

Braeseke is charged with three counts of first degree murder, one count of conspiracy to commit murder to get the family's inheritance, being armed during commission of a felony and using firearms in commission of a felony.

He is accused of shooting to death his parents, Floyd Wright and Barbara Dee Braeseke, both 41, and his paternal grandfather, John Braeseke, 81, of Illinois.

A companion, David Barker, 16, of 9609 Broadmoor Drive, San Ramon, has also been charged in the murder.

Crew also received permission for his client to make two more telephone calls per day in an effort to find his dog. The German short hair is believed to be held by county animal control authorities and Braeseke indicated a desire to have a friend take care of the dog for him.

Recreation center envisioned

The Dublin Land Company, a Chicago, Ill. consortium that yesterday won approval for a 40-lane bowling center next to its Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, plans more than a simple, neighborhood bowl.

"We want to develop a complete recreation center," said company officer and attorney Martin F. Jones.

Initial stages call for the bowling center and a 56-room addition to the motor lodge. Plans for the immediate future include a swimming pool and four tennis courts with an adjoining children's outdoor play yard.

But further down the line the mid-western concern that has been developing Dublin for some 20 years plans retail shops, an automotive service center, bank and office tower and gourmet restaurant wrapped around the block from Regional along Dublin Boulevard and San Ramon Valley Road.

The bank and office tower will be a "high rise," said architect J. Ronald Findleton, conforming to the county's maximum 45-foot limitation—three or four stories, depending on the design configuration, with 10,000-square-foot per floor.

It will be Dublin's second high-rise, rivaling the Foremost—McKesson production plant on Dublin Boulevard. The valley's tallest building is at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory at six floors.

Company spokesmen said they have no firm tenants, but have been "talking to a couple of banks." They also have found interest in the adjoining gourmet restaurant and said they want to "get started on that right away."

The retail center will include specialty shops and boutiques with a nearby retail service center.

Sandwiched among the buildings are rows of parking spaces.

Their plans call for yet another expansion of the motor lodge after the site is developed.

The firm is run by James D. Harvey, said Jones, adding Dublin Land is wholly owned by Motel Interstate. The company has held the land for several years, he said, and developed the Liberty House store and warehouse, the motor lodge, and built Regional Street "with our own money."

Changes coming to Dublin School

The Citizens Advisory Committee of the Murray School District will recommend conversion of Dublin Elementary School to strictly seventh - eighth grade use when they forward a report to the Murray school board on Monday, Oct. 4.

Body of the report will include worksheets previously put together by Wally Moreskine, district director of auxiliary services, on possible conversion of Dublin (now a kindergarten through eighth grade school) and Frederiksen (now a K-6 school).

A report writing committee was organized at Wednesday night's CAC meeting and includes Karen Grant, Dublin; Linda Cooley, Donlon, and Harry Molz, Frederiksen. Sandy Earle, Nielsen School area representative, will be an alternate.

The report writing sub-committee will meet Monday afternoon at the district offices on Brighton in Dublin.

Next, and probably the last, CAC meeting is scheduled Thursday at Frederiksen School, 7:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, more petitions are being circulated throughout the Murray School District by Residents-In-Action, the latest ones revised to include a statement saying "we oppose conversion of Frederik-sen to a seventh - eighth grade school" ... as well as Dublin.

An RIA spokesman said about 50 petitions were being circulated. An earlier petition, noting just Dublin, gained 1,308 signatures and was presented to the Murray district administration and board more than a week ago.

At the outset of the meeting Wednesday, approximately 35 audience members questioned the CAC on various conversion, status quo, busing and staffing considerations.

As the CAC moved toward outlining its report, several members of the audience started drifting out of the room.

Two panel members were absent (chairman Bob Scheppeler and Sharon Collins) but statements prepared by them were read aloud.

A move to file majority and minority reports to the school board was turned down.

The motion to convert Dublin to a seventh - eighth grade school the CAC recommendation was made by Linda Cooley of Donlon. Her motion finally passed 7-2 with Sandy Earle, Nielsen, and Karen Grant of Dublin dissenting.

The RIA said today it has no plans at present to make a statement at Monday's board meeting. However, several members have indicated they will be in attendance.

Monday's agenda includes a summer school report, enrollment count for the first week of school, a discussion on bus policies, resolutions on revision of the free milk policy and a candidate's statement of qualifications, Title IX policy, resource teacher allotments, and an update on salary negotiations with teachers.

The Murray school board was to hold a personnel session at noon today to review current salary proposals and the prospect of a teacher boycott of after-school activities and meetings starting Monday.

More bowling lanes approved

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Opponents of a second bowling center in Dublin lost their bid to block construction of the nearby 40-lane facility yesterday, sending the developers scurrying to the county's public works department for a $2,900 building permit.

Attorneys, contractors and the architect for the Dublin Land Company, which will expand the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge site to include the bowling center, said construction would begin immediately. They paid their fee and filed for the building permit following the decision.

Their opponents, American Recreation Centers, Inc., and Bernal Investment, broke ground for their nearly identical 40-lane center in late July. Grading and pre-construction work is nearly complete, they said, and the lanes should open in February.

ARC spokesman Jerry Davis told

After 50 years, Kaiser quarry is 'for sale'

The "voluntary liquidation" being proposed by Kaiser Industries should have no impact on the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical research center at Pleasanton, but it could lead to sale of Kaiser Sand and Gravel to some other industrial entity.

Checking out reports resulting from Kaiser Industries' recent announcement to liquidate that parent body, The Times has learned that the big move is probably one year from any kind of action, but when it comes the future of Henry Kaiser's first quarry operation in California could be in doubt.

"As one of the wholly-owned divisions of Kaiser Industries, Sand and Gravel is now for sale," a spokesman for that parent body said. Kaiser Aluminum however, which is owned 38 percent by Kaiser Industries, is a publicly held corporation that might experience "broader ownership of its stock" from the liquidation of Kaiser Industries.

Reports on Sand and Gravel's profitability are muddled, being tied to the construction industry which has been in a bad slump for the past year or more. The Kaiser gravel operations at Pleasanton had just completed building a $10 million processing plant — "the world's most modern gravel operation" — when that industry-wide slump set in.

Kaiser has been extracting sand and gravel from the Amador-Livermore Valley for almost half a century. The firm recently gained county permission to start quarrying on the final 480-acre parcel of its local holdings, although that permit may now be challenged in court by City of Livermore.

In related business, Lone Star — which has even more extensive holdings in the Valley — recently announced plans for development of a $12 million sand and gravel plant at Fair Oaks, near Sacramento.

The industry has always contended that the quality of gravel available from this Valley is obtainable nowhere else in Northern California other than the Sacramento or Yuba areas. Best estimates are that the four major extractors now working this Valley will have exhausted that supply by the year 2000.

Main St. pioneer leaving

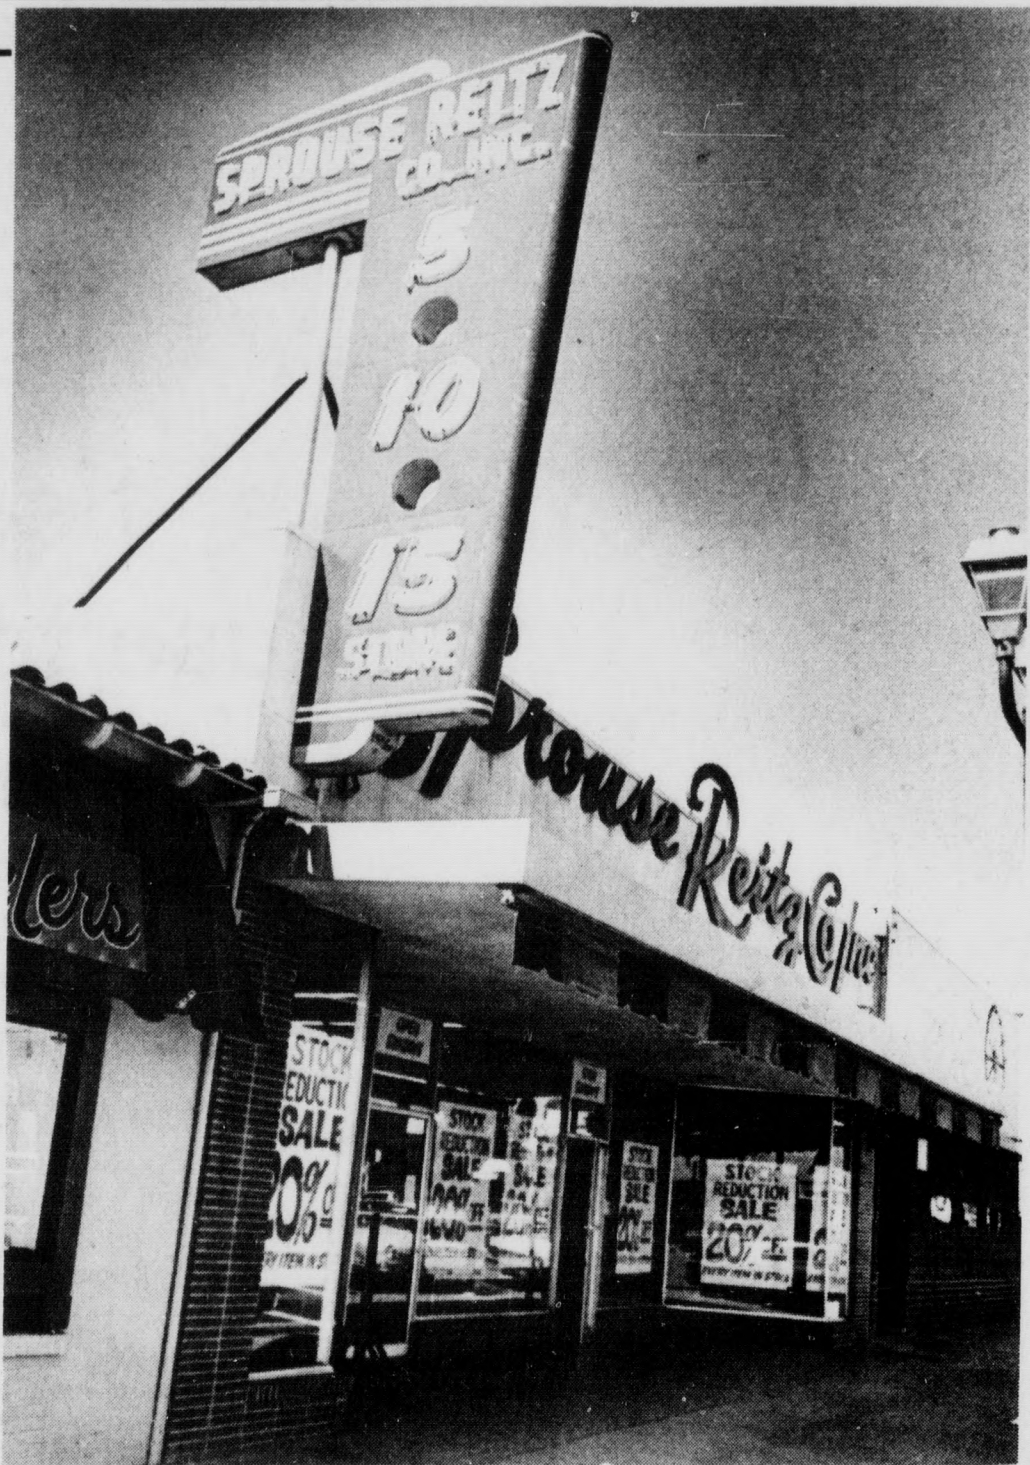

PLEASANTON — The Sprouse Reitz store on Main Street will close October 2.

A landmark for 20 years since the day it opened, the variety store's merchandise will be consolidated with the Sprouse Reitz store in the Amador Center.

The Amador Center building, which is much larger than the Main street store, was opened six years ago. The Main Street building will be vacated because the lease is expiring. There was no word yesterday on a tenant to replace Sprouse Reitz.

John Velure, district manager for Sprouse Reitz, said that the store has reduced prices 20 per cent on all merchandise in the Main Street store to try to close out the stock by the October 2 closing date.

Sprouse Reitz began business in Portland, Ore., in 1912 and operates stores in 12 western states.

Lee awaits grievance decision

LIVERMORE — Deposed Granada High principal Jack Lee is awaiting the school board's decision on his grievance.

Lee has been given the newly created position of budget director and community services director in the district office, at a pay cut of several thousand dollars. He had been head of Granada High since it opened in 1963, and was notified last March of his impending reassignment.

Protesting the move, Lee has been following the school district's grievance procedure to fight it. He has met with his supervisor, Lee Thompson; Superintendent of Schools Leo Croce; and, Tuesday night, with the entire school board.

During the latest two-hour meeting he was accompanied by his attorney and a court reporter.

The trustees have five school days in which to tell Lee their decision on his case; their deadline is next Tuesday, which is also the date of their next public school board meeting.

Besides discussing Lee's grievance, the school board Tuesday night awarded Trinity Baptist Church the bid for just under 10 acres of property on Olivina Avenue.

The church was the sole bidder for the land, offering $62,000. The school board had set a minimum value of $61,800 on the property.

Trinity Baptist Church leaders plan to build a larger church on the property because they have outgrown their quarters on North Livermore Avenue.

Valley obituary

June W. Flynn

June W. Flynn, 64, a native of Iowa and 22-year Livermore resident, died Thursday in a local hospital.

She was the wife of the late John P. Flynn, and a member of the First Presbyterian Church and American Legion Auxiliary of Livermore, and a volunteer at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Survivors include her son Patrick Flynn of San Francisco, and daughters Judith Anne Flynn, Sausalito, and Suzette Mary Flynn, Berkeley.

She also leaves her brother, Stephen Dunn of Iowa and sister Irene McAllister of Virginia.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m., Monday, in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Fourth and K streets, Livermore, followed by interment in St. Michael's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the chapel of the Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore, after 10 a.m. Saturday.

Contributions in her memory may be made to the Heart Fund.

the board he opposed the competing center because the market area — Dublin, Pleasanton, San Ramon, Sunol, Livermore and Danville — could not support an additional 80 lanes.

Completion of the two will push the market area's total to 136 lanes, including 32 at Granada Bowl in Livermore and 24 at Danville Bowl. They estimate the total market population at 156,000.

Davis said marketing figures of one lane per 1,000 population "are produced by manufacturers who are in the business of selling equipment. You need 2,000 people to support each lane."

His opponents plans, he said, "address their own economic needs, not the needs of the community" as stipulated in county ordinances governing zoning variances.

But Dublin Land carried the day after attorney Chester Caldecott claimed "We are being opposed solely on economic and competitive factors... Zoning regulations may not be used to create a monopoly or to stifle competition — and that's state law."

County supervisor Charles Santana called several bowling alleys in his Hayward district and told the board there are 200 lanes for about 200,000 people "I don't see any reason why this won't go," said Santana in casting the third and decisive vote.

Dublin Land, which plans to develop the surrounding area into a recreation - shopping center, got the green light with the minimum three votes required. Valley supervisor John Murphy and north county representative Tom Bates joined Santana. Chairman Fred Cooper and supervisor Joseph Bort abstained.

Pennies a dying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Remember penny candy, the penny weight machine, penny parking meters and penny stocks? They're all gone, and the penny may soon be gone too.

Inflation has led most people to toss their pennies in jars or desk drawers, stuff them in piggy banks or let them mount up quietly in the cracks behind the sofa's cushion.

Because the truth is, a penny goes much farther today than it did just 10 years ago — you can carry one around for weeks and never find anything it will buy.

teachers would not take up extra duties (outside of classroom instruction and coaches paid for extra duty). Eaton also said teachers might elect to go to a minimum day, which would result in classes recessing at 11:30 a.m.

Representative council members will poll their respective faculties following negotiations.

At a Pleasanton Joint School District board meeting Wednesday, some 75 teachers applauded a statement by Tom Zach, president of the Amador Valley

Pipeline vote still split

Finding itself apparently split down the middle on endorsing the proposed valley wastewater pipeline, the Zone 7 water management board Wednesday night voted to table a formal vote on the project.

Board members thus leave themselves only one more chance, at next month's meeting, to voice a "yea" or "nay" on the $28 million proposal.

Meeting at the Del Valle treatment plant for its regular monthly gathering, the board appeared headed for a 3-3 split on the pipeline issue, with Gb Marguth indicating he would abstain. Zone 7 directors Richard Ryon, Robert Pearson and Chairman George Lydixen implied they opposed the project, while fellow board members Joseph Concannon, Archer Futch and Ed Kinney expressed approval.

Lydixen complained that the pipeline's sponsoring agency, the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA), purposely kept Zone 7 personnel from any decision - making in the project's formation.

"Since LAVWMA chose from the beginning to keep the Zone out of it, I say we go about our business and they go about their business," he said.

Lydixen said he could not support the pipeline project because "it does not help the valley." The three agencies (Pleasanton, Livermore and the Valley Community Services District, representing Dublin) "in their own selfish little clique" didn't include Zone 7, and did not represent the valley's best interest, he added.

Concannon said he favors the project "by default — we have no better answer."

Pearson blasted the project, saying it is riddled with poor planning and mistakes. "It's inconceivable to me that the (LAVWMA) board members didn't pick up" a $7 million technical error in the bond resolution, later found by the press and officially amended. "And I understand they made a second error of over $300,000," he said.

Ryon agreed, saying he openly opposed the project because "we can't get answers we asked for last month." He and Pearson, together with LAVWMA alternate Glen Dahlbacka, formed the "Valley Residents Committee" and wrote the ballot argument opposing the measure.

Kinney said the board must get involved with this, as well as other valley water management decisions. "We're going to have to admit there is a pipeline project," he said.

Futch said LAVWMA had asked for Zone 7 support, and that the board should respond, next month at the latest. "It is our responsibility to take a position on the project," he said.

Marguth said the Zone board should not get involved in a running disagreement with the LAVWMA board. "I appreciate their asking us to participate, but I would personally find it hard to support the project — so let each board members take his own position," he said.

Pearson then motioned discussion of the pipeline endorsement be tabled, with Ryon's second. The board voted 6-1 to table, with Futch dissenting.

In other action, the Zone board heard Manager Mun Mar say that valley gravel mining operations, if not closely supervised, might adversely affect the underground water table.

The recent drought, combined with evaporation from a mining process, has caused the water table to drop in recent months.

With 3,000 acres zoned for mining operations, approximately 7,000 acre-feet of water could be lost to evaporation annually, Mar said.

Plague scare closes park near Redding

REDDING (AP) — A Lassen Volcanic National Park campground was closed Wednesday after officials found bubonic plague in two dead ground squirrels.

The National Park Service said the action affected only Crags Campground, which is in the western part of the park about 60 miles east of Redding. The rest of the park remained open.

The normal closing day for Crags Campground has been Sept. 30.

Porno take tied to crime units in south

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Organized crime is taking over the pornography business in Southern California, state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger said Wednesday.

The state's top law enforcement officer also said authorities may resort to antitrust laws to root out East Coast-based gangsters in California.

"Unlike their traditional activities, the product they're selling is, in many cases, legal — a movie that has survived a court test," Younger told reporters.

"It hasn't been traditionally necessary to use antitrust laws (against organized crime) because if you can prove somebody's selling heroin, for example, you don't need anything else."

VCSD to spend $60,000

DUBLIN — Phase II park funds have been allocated by the Valley Community Services District Citizens' Advisory Committee on Parks and Recreation.

An available amount of $60,000 derived from part of a 39 cent tax increase was originally earmarked to improve existing parks. This stipulation was later changed to include incomplete Athan Downs and Dublin Sports Grounds.

During a VCSD CAC board meeting earlier this week a motion was adopted to list 12 items requiring funding in order of priority.

1. To build all or some of the projected tennis courts at Athan Downs.

2. To put in lights and bleachers at selected fields at Athan Downs and Dublin Sports Grounds.

3. Provide major sports equipment like backstops, goal posts, bases and volleyball supplies.

4. Erect lights and resurface tennis courts at Kolb Park.

5. To build a Tot-Lot at Dublin Sports Grounds.

6. Put in drinking fountains at Kolb Park and Countryclub School Tot Park.

7. Supply major maintenance equipment not provided for in normal capital outlay. (field liners, motorized cart, etc.)

8. Put in barbecue facilities at Shannon Park Community Center.

9. Provide for lawn bowling either at Dublin Sports Grounds, Athan Downs or Shannon Park.

10. Put up flag poles at Athan Downs and Dublin Sports Grounds.

11. Plant large shade trees in existing parks.

12. Provide hard surface equipment like tether ball posts, paint liners, basketball posts around edges of parking space.

We deserve something more from our kids

An Editorial

The Amador and Livermore Valleys have been credited with "one of the finest youth soccer programs in California."

Our Little League Baseball, while newer than most, is thriving from Livermore to Dublin, and beyond.

Nowhere in these communities is there a classroom in use that is more than 20 years old ... the bulk of our facilities, from spacious gym to excellent science lab, were built within the last dozen years.

The youth of these communities is well served, much loved and — on any other state standard — well treated.

And that is why the young people owe us something more than the childish litter, the disgraceful vandalism that marks so much of our business sectors.

Oh sure — "There is always something more could be doing for our young people" ... "there is no bowling alley in our neighborhood"

... "the local show house specializes in adult movies." We've heard all that before.

And we have responded to that challenge. This newspaper, the businessman next door, the people who make Little League, and Junior Football and Youth Soccer a reality. That is not accomplished with taxes; it is no where near supported by fees and member participation. The big money comes from the community, and the bulk of that is often the local businessman, one way or another.

Yes, we know the merchants are far from perfect. Sure, some of them hassle the kids. And so do the cops, sometimes. And yes, here are business people who don't keep their own shops clean, their own streets swept. We know all that. But right now we're talking about another community problem, aimed at a portion of our citizenry that is too often exonerated, too readily forgiven.

Young people are citizens, too.

A boy who can scratch dirty words into the face of a building is old enough to know the consequences of that damage.

A girl who is big enough to ride a bike ought to understand the value of property, the need for rules, the importance of sharing.

The argument that "the kids don't have anything else to do with their time" does not hold up ... not at ten o'clock at night, in the middle of a school week. Not for a girl who is 15, or younger.

There is no argument "in defense of the children" that can support filth left in a store front, splattered on the window.

There is no show house that is going to "cater more to the kids" when those same kids rip the seats with knives, and leave their body wastes in the show house aisles.

That is a problem no amount of parks can solve. That is a sickness which goes far beyond the concern of one businessman, the damage to any one store.

Those are our children. This is our town. This is their town!

It's time everybody began to care, before nobody cares anymore.

I suspect that all of you who kept saying "Jimmy Carter isn't the kind of man to be easily trusted" are now thoroughly ashamed of yourselves.

Just because the dear man comes from south of Salt Lake City. And owns a million bucks or so of peanut acres. That was no reason to think he was anything but a simple, dedicated Georgian, just trying to serve the Lord.

Anyhow, now he has really proven his mettle. "If elected president of the United States, I will dispose of my holdings in the peanut business."

That's what he said. Appeared right in the New York Times. Which means it must be true.

I hope you grasp the full significance of Jimmy's statement.

Going to dispose of all his peanut holdings.

Only if you are a sixth-generation peanut farmer can you appreciate the depth of Jimmy's sacrifice.

"My children would have been the seventh generation of Carters on this land," he said, wiping away his smile, briefly.

If you think this is quite a sacrifice for Jimmy Carter to make, imagine how Amy feels! The littlest Carter was in line to inherit a bundle, from the peanut plantation her great, great, great grand daddy and a few faithful slaves first began, back when men were men, and profits were untaxed.

Now Amy Carter faces the prospect being the first to break that Carter family tradition. And the first to lose out on a very lucrative business. Raising peanuts ain't peanuts, if you know what I mean.

Amy hit her old man with this question, just a day or so after the New York Times story appeared.

"Say there Dadeeo, huh," Amy said. "What's this ah hear about you pledging to dissolve the family interest in all peanuts forevermore if elected to the Presidency? Isn't that a little hasty?"

"No, daughta dear," Jimmy replied, "I want to give the voters of this country no opportunity to think that I am anything less than forthright, honest, dedicated."

"What about your childun, Daddy dear? Right now the vote is four to zero that you're something of a nut, if you'll pardon the expression. We gonna wind up on the short end of this heah stick."

Jimmy is pensive for a moment, unsmiling, before he answers his beloved daughter.

"Yes, Amy darlin', I thought a great deal about cutting off you kids without a dime. And believe me, it wasn't an easy sacrifice for me to make."

"Yes, Daddy dear, I can imagine it really tore you up. Justlike giving up our nice little spread here in Plains for that drafty White House. I can bet that's going to be quite a sacrifice for you too."

"Yes, but the White House grounds does have lovely rose gardens," Jimmy added, smiling.

"When is the last time you tried climbing a rose bush, Daddy dear? There isn't a single oak on them White House grounds worth falling out of. The whole place is a cardiac arrest, if you ask me," Amy says, sulkily.

"Now, now child," Jimmy says, soothingly, "I know you're going to miss climbing trees here on the peanut plantation, not to mention brother Billy's beer, and the magnolia blossoms. And oh yes, your inheritance. But ask not what your country can do for you, daughta dear, ask rather ..."

"Oh let's not put on that Kennedy bit again," Amy says, firmly, "I can take almost anything but that. Besides, you come across like an Andy Griffith version of Harry Truman."

"What's more," Amy continued, "you get a nice little salary and side benefits as president that come to two hundred thou, near as I can figuh. That ain't bad compensation for giving up your share of a little ol' peanut farm, not when you consider the price of peanuts this past year or two, plus the weavils, and then there's that talk of the AFL-CIO coming down here to organize all our nice little ol' black help. That's gonna cost the Carters an arm and a leg ... no counting the one you already gave George Means for his support. You sure into this presidential thing real deep, Dadeeo."

"Yes, Amy dear, I feel the Lord has called me to this great office. And there's nothing I wouldn't do for the Lord, as you well know."

"Yeah, you've been saying that a lot, late. Frankly, I liked that other line of yours some better, the one you used all the time before you got this presidential bug."

"And what might that be, Amy dear?"

"You can never be sure what kind of nut you've got, until you break the shell."

Stanley Blvd. — more to come

Alameda County's action aimed at rebuilding and widening that single, crowded traffic route between Livermore and Pleasanton is good news. It is also long overdue.

And, regrettably, it is still only part of the answer.

A look at any Valley map indicates glaring deficiency in the routes connecting our respective communities. If it weren't for the freeways — I-580 between Livermore and Pleasanton, I-680 linking the centers of Pleasanton and Dublin, and I-680 again south to Sunol — local traffic would be a quagmire of cars and trucks.

As it is, the situation is not good. Stanley Boulevard is the worst, the most dangerous of those bottlenecks. It is also an important route for commerce and industry. What Alameda County now proposes will help the east-west flow of passenger vehicles; it will do little to confront the greater problem of getting gravel trucks off city streets, and it will do nothing whatsoever about a north-south passage across the heart of the Valley.

Short of looking a gift horse in the mouth, we would still urge the two city governments to check those county plans for Stanley Boulevard very, very closely.

Are the provisions for left-turn lanes into those quarry areas adequate? safe? and long enough to allow several trucks to stack at one and the same moment without danger to trailing traffic?

Does the design of this new, wider Stanley leave room for an eventual overcrossing of that route and some ten sets of tracks? Is the county prepared to acknowledge its responsibility in extending El Charro Road from Stanley to I-580? And what about Shadow Cliffs Park — is their provision for ready access to I-580 for the tens of thousands of visitors each summer from East Bay points to that popular water resort? — and without using city streets!

Widening Stanley Boulevard to four lanes, plus truck turnouts and a bike-lane is great news. But years of dealing with the county on this one matter has taught us to keep our eye on the player, not the shell. Let's turn 'em all up gentlemen, so that there might not be any more surprises, along that crowded trail.

Well, it's a start anyway

FOCUS/The speed limit

55 and stay alive

Department of Transportation radar checks reveal the average speed on California highways and freeways is 57 miles per hour.

Prior to mandating the 55 mph. speed limit on Jan. 1, 1974, transportation officials and the California Highway Patrol figured the average speed (when 65 mph. was the maximum) was 8 to 10 miles per hour higher than it is now.

The 55 versus 65 battle is an ongoing one.

But there is little question it is saving lives, repair bills and somewhat neutralizing the rocketing cost of gas and oil.

CHP Commissioner Glen Craig, in a statement released over a month ago, reiterated the patrol's support of 55 as a maximum speed limit and cited statistics he claims proves the folly of returning to the old 65 mph.

Craig contends that a return to 65-70 would cause an additional 300 fatalities a year, 400 more injuries, and necessitate 300 million additional gallons of gas.

Personally, I would like to hear a definitive statement from the oil companies on the 55 versus 65 question.

Craig estimates 600 lives have been saved and 800 injuries prevented since the lower speed limit was posted 2½ years ago. Yet, a growing faction, not counting vested interests, continues to press for return of 65.

To our knowledge there is no statewide group supporting 65. But pro-65 backers have some valid points, though seemingly feather-like in consistency.

One is the frustration caused by "creeping" along at 45 to 55 mph. when late for an appointment, social event or work.

Craig, through CHP South County spokesman Phil Hazelwood, says the majority of offenders (breaking the 55 limit and sometimes breaking up their vehicles) are those making short runs, i.e. entering the freeway to go 4 or 5 miles up or down the freeway to another destination.

The driver will often turn his mind off to the dangers of such a short, routine trip — speedup to 65 or 70 and find himself all of a sudden in tight quarters.

Another enticement to breaking 55 are highways such as Interstate 5. The layout of the road is an invitation to go 65-to-75 all the way, while maintaining a casual watch for "smokies" in the rear view mirror.

Just the opposite of "5" is that stretch of Highway 580 that runs between Dublin and Castro Valley. While it, too, is a major highway, the current construction and resultant uneven and rutted stretches have turned 580 into a potential "blood alley." In its present condition it is dangerous even at 55.

Construction on the Eden Canyon section is scheduled for completion in two more years. For daily commuters of that route, it is going to be a long and agonizing period.

LIGHTER TIMES

People have asked for my rules of job-hunting and just so you don't have to wait for the book, here they are in handy digest form.

The first rule is to know what kind of job you want. I suggest quitting the job you have now and selecting the 20 or 30 vocations which most appeal to you. Spend one day at each one, observing, perhaps even participating in a job. Pump gas one day at a gas station. Take part in a heart transplant operation the next. This way you will get the feel of the working conditions and learn just how charming or how gross your future co-workers will be at the coffee breaks.

Once you narrow your field of interest, sum up your qualifications for the job. For example, if you want a job that's verbally oriented, like radio announcing, teaching, or being dictator of a foreign nation, emphasize the fact you love to talk. You'd be surprised at how many people get their jobs just because they know how to talk.

Be sure to pick out good references for yourself. Go back to those past employers, tell them your needs, and just to be safe, grease their palms with a couple of hundred bucks. You'll be surprised at how it will improve their prose style in those letters of recommendation.

Next stop is the job interview. I have one cardinal rule here: always stay awake through the entire interview. Given the lackluster interviewing style of many personnel directors this is a tough assignment.

Letters to the Times

No maggots

Editor, The Times:

Maggots! Pat Kennedy's article was grossly exaggerated. Consider the weather this past week of high humidity and sure you are bound to have maggots.

If the individuals concerned would learn what they could do with their garbage they would then ask why pay so much for a less than full can picked up once a week.

1. Recycle tin and aluminum products. (Get money for it too).

2. Develop a compost pile of food scraps and yard clippings.

3. Bundle up newspapers in 10 inch piles and let the garbage hauler haul it away at no extra cost.

Instead of buying more containers to haul garbage off to the dump, separate it and let it work for you and the environment.

Overcrossing vote

Editor, The Times:

The City Council's decision to poll the entire city on the Las Positas overcrossing issue was a poor one. It does not allow the people in the area surrounding the proposed overcrossing to voice their feelings on said overcrossing.

The entire city should have a say on a bond issue but the type of overcrossing should be specified by the people most affected by it. Then it would be up to those concerned to sell the bond issue to the voters.

The option of having the state meet its obligation to build the overcrossing is a great idea. However, its inclusion on the ballot as a viable option is totally false and very misleading. I have discussed the feasibility of the state paying for an overcrossing with Cal-Trans. They have stated that no money is available and that the Las Positas overcrossing is not even on their priority listing.

I urge everyone to vote for a pedestrian overcrossing at West Las Positas as a vehicle overcrossing is unnecessary and unwarranted.

As for the City Council instead of getting involved in this ridiculous ballot, they should be addressing the issue of obtaining legally binding guarantees from the developers of the Stoneridge Shopping center. This would allow the sale of a bond issue to build the Stoneridge overcrossing and solve the police and fire fighting access problems.

EARL WATERS

Prime land

The wails of woe which accompanied the defeat of Assemblyman Charles Warren's measure establishing a state board with power to freeze prime farmland were loud indeed. And, at first blush, it does seem odd that farmers would oppose a measure which sought to limit taxation on such land to foster continued agricultural useage.

Environmentalists, as well as many others who have become concerned over the rapidly depleting open space within the state, also were puzzled by the press accounts of the bill's death.

Many who have lived in the state long enough to remember the citrus groves of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Orange counties share a desire to protect the prime farm lands which remain from further destructions by developers. And there are those, thinking of the once beautiful orchards of the Santa Clara Valley, who may believe it is a case of the pardon coming too late anyway.

There never was an area so ideally suited for the growing of cherries, apricots, prunes and peaches as the Santa Clara Valley. All that remains of those orchards today is the memory. While one may argue that such crops can be grown elsewhere, the quality of the fruit cannot be compared. This is the reason 90 per cent of the lemons produced in the U.S. are grown in the Ventura-Santa Barbara area. It is the reason 90 per cent of the ripe olives of the nation are grown in the upper Sacramento Valley. For some crops, such as artichokes, only the coastal San Mateo, Santa Cruz and Monterey counties provide the right climate for successful growth.

So there is great merit in the objectives of the Warren bill even though it is an effort which would have been much better started 50 years ago. Even the farmers and most others opposing the bill approved of the principle. The bill came apart by its provisions which opponents found unreasonable, dictatorial, and confiscatory.

Mechanically, the major objection was the creation of a state board to oversee the farmland preservation goals. The county supervisors, adhering to the tenet that local control is far preferable than federal or state in any situation, were violently against the bill. Most other opponents shared that view but their other objections went to the heart of the matter.

They saw in it a confiscation of their lands without recompense, and without any consideration of continued property tax burdens. For, while the measure did provide that land frozen to development as prime farmland could only be taxed as agricultural land, it failed to protect marginal farmland, which could be affected, from higher taxation even though the owners would be deprived of higher profit useage. There were other objections of major importance, going mainly to the right of owners to use their property as they desire within reasonable limits.

Even so perhaps the goals could have been achieved if Warren had been receptive to compromises during the two years in which he held the bill before the Legislature. But apparently it was a case of abject adance. For Senator George Zenovich had authored a measure with the same objectives and had worked out provisions which had found much broader acceptance than the Warren bill. Zenovich's proposal had won Senate approval and was before Warren's committee in the closing days. He refused to have it considered and thereby closed the door on any chance to provide some protection for the farmlands.

Mike Lawrence gives the best rule we have seen for when to read your partner's signal as suit preference. Here it is:

"Never interpret partner's card as a suit preference if it can logically mean anything else."

Here is a hand to illustrate this. We won't go into the merits of the bidding except to point out that West can make seven hearts against a diamond lead, six against a spade lead and five against a club lead.

Also, when South bid six spades he had no idea as to who could make what. He didn't really care. He couldn't be set much at six spades and couldn't expect much profit defending against six hearts.

West opens his ace of hearts against the six-spade contract. If he shifts to a diamond he collects 100 points. If he leads anything else South scores game, slam and rubber.

East can and should ask for a diamond lead by dropping his king of hearts on his partner's ace.

This can't be a come-on in hearts. It must be suit preference to ask for a diamond shift.

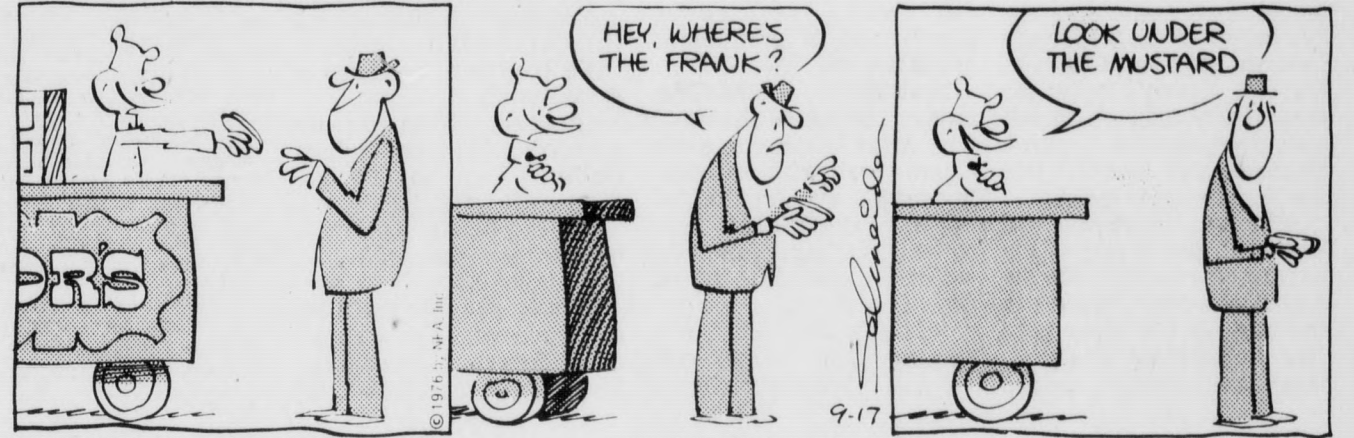

Ask the Jacobys

A Georgia reader wants to know what happens when a player asks for a new deck of cards to change his or her luck.

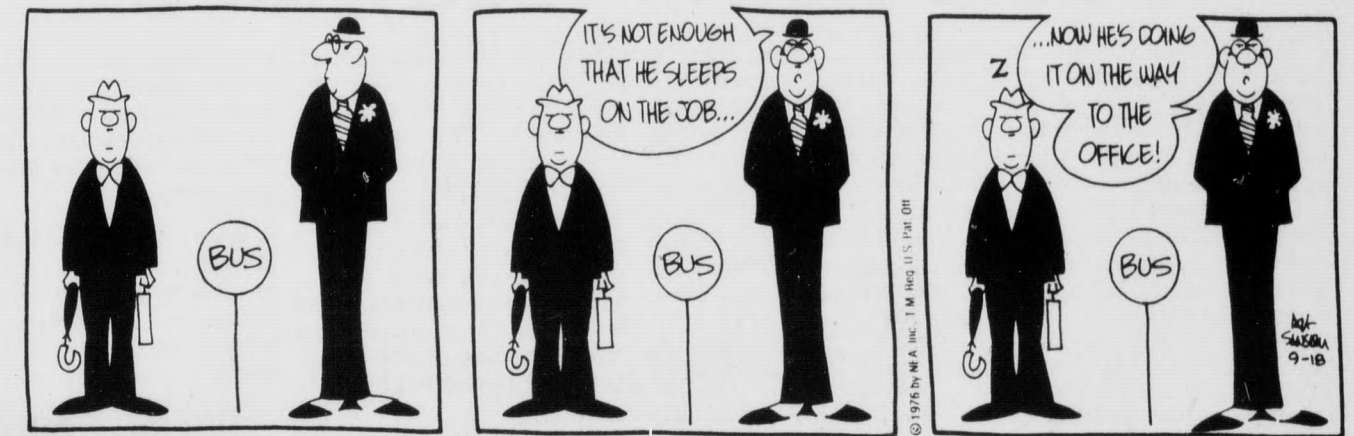

There is no rule here. It is proper and courteous to accede to the request provided the person asking for new cards is willing to pay for them.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Jenkins, Dean spark Mat victory

Key victories by Murray Dean and Bill Jenkins, coupled with the mixed emotions of Lee Williford, helped the Granada Matadors overcome shaky odds and stake a 5-2 win over tough Livermore in EBAL tennis action at the winners' court yesterday.

Granada's win, coming against a team that knocked off superpower Amador just a few days earlier, sets up yet another early-season crucial match on Tuesday, when the Mats will battle with perennially tough Monte Vista.

Livermore, meanwhile, off the key wins in what both coaches felt were the deciding matches.

"Murray Dean played well," offered victorious coach Lee Williford, who watched his two sons (both of whom play for Livermore) nearly destroy his own team. But it never came down to the Williford brothers to decide the match, because Dean's Come - from - behind 2-6, 6-2, 6-1 win over Vern Cedarlund gave the Mats their fourth win of the afternoon while both of the Willifords were still finishing their matches.

in order to have it. I thought we had it, but couldn't get off the hook."

Gabor feels Granada has the best doubles teams in the league, the Mats proved why with two wins yesterday. Cris Watchmaker and Paul Hurdlow topped Phil Smith and Mark Voelker, 6-1, 6-2, while Tony Delgado and Mike Knell had a tougher time in besting Ken Kemp and Mark Johansen 6-4, 6-2.

Steve Williford continued his outstanding play by beating Granada's number one man, Manzar Iqbal, 6-3, 6-3. Brother Scott had less luck. Battling a cold that has stayed with him since the Amador match, Williford lost a three - set match to Granada's Jeff MacKanic.

Granada coach Williford wondered what to say to his sons at the dinner table. "I gotta live with two guys," he joked. "As a team, I'm glad we won, and if my own kids won, then I wouldn't feel that bad."

"I don't know if we can beat Amador," Williford continued. "I think Monte Vista is the team to beat. They've got all of those kids who walk on from nowhere. I don't want to discount our possibilities, though, "said the optimistic coach. "We'll give everybody a good match."

In other EBAL action yesterday California edged Dublin 4-3 and San Ramon downed Foothill 5-2.

The Grizzlies lost their first three singles matches to Dublin before Scott Bartholmew and Greg Kuffin recorded wins for California. Bartholmew beat Steve Cameron 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 and Kuffin topped Greg Hrasock, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2. The Grizzlies won both doubles matches to cinch the match.

Leading 3-2 after the singles matches were concluded San Ramon won both doubles matches to topple Foothill.

Kevin Merritt and Doug Podkins teamed for a 6-0, 6-2 win over Foothill's Chris Neves and Paul Schaut. Jim Meese and Steve Johnson of the Wolves came back to take a 6-3, 6-0 win in the second doubles match.

lost all of the breaks and evened their league slate at 1-1.

By no means, though, do either of the coaches feel yesterday's game was the key match of the year. Says Cowboy mentor Don Gabor, "I haven't seen the rest of the league, so it's only speculation. I think Granada and Monte Vista are the strongest teams."

Although the match will without a doubt play a big part in determining the eventual champ, it wasn't in the bag for the Mats until two borderline players, Dean and Jenkins, pulled

"I stepped into my backhand and stopped hitting off the back of my foot," credited Dean to his amazing comeback. "His (Cedarlund's) first serve didn't come in as much as in the first set."

Jenkins was another Matador who came back to win. After Leaping to a one - game lead with an opening set 6-2 win, Jenkins fell behind Livermore's Phil Newkirk 4-2 in the following set before rallying to win 6-4.

"That's the set I was looking for," Gabor said. We had to take four singles

Gael defense ready for SL

Dublin High School's defense will be on the spot when the Gaels host offense-minded San Leandro in a non-league football game at 8 p.m. tonight.

In other non-league contests involving East Bay Athletic League teams Amador Valley travels to Tracy, Livermore hosts Lincoln of Stockton, Northgate is at Foothill, Monte Vista hosts Las Lomas, Granada plays Washington in Fremont and California tangles with Ceres at San Ramon High School.

San Ramon travels to Kennedy of Fremont tomorrow night.

Dublin's defense could be in for a rough time against San Leandro. Dublin lost a 41-32 decision to American last week and San Leandro could have an even better offense than American.

"They've got a quarterback (Randy Seeley) who threw for over 1,500 yards last season," lamented Gael coach Wayne Re yesterday. "They also have some excellent receivers."

Dave Armstrong, Rick Cahall and Chris Dickman are the prime targets of Seeley. Armstrong led the team with 45 receptions last year. He and Dickman each pulled in three passes in the Alameda County Athletic League Jamboree last weekend.

Despite the power of the San Leandro offense, Re thinks his defense can do a good job.

"What hurt us against American was when they ran the opening kickoff back for a touchdown," he said. "We made some defensive adjustments in the second period and they could only score one touchdown in the second half."

If the Dublin defense can stop the Pirate passing attack the Gaels stand an excellent chance of gaining their first win of the season. The Gaels' backfield is LOADED.

Ace fullback Jim Boulware, who rushed for 1,190 yards last year, gained 201 yards in 19 carries against American.

What made Boulware's feat so outstanding was the fact he was just coming off a bout with mononucleosis. "He wasn't in top shape against American, considering the short amount of practice he had," Re remarked about his ace running back. "This week he is in top shape, however, and he's ready to go."

The remainder of the Gael Backfield includes quarterback Sean Mays, sophomore wingback Lynn Beamon and both Jon Batchelor and Chuck Gangnuss at running back.

Amador faces a tough task against Tracy, one of the favorites in the San Joaquin Athletic League. (one of Northern California's toughest).

The Bulldogs have an excellent pass defense. They have all their defensive backs returning from last season when they led the SJAL in pass defense.

Their defensive line is also a strong point. Frank Mesellas, a 235-pounder and 215-pound tackle Len Lindy lead the way.

Tracy edged Manteca 7-6 last week with quarterback Jess Gutierrez and halfback Lyndell Hawkins leading the offense.

Granada takes an explosive attack led by fullback Vance Rushing to Tak Fudenna Stadium in Fremont. The Matadors are coming off a 30-7 win over Marina last week.

Washington is led by quarterback Mike Ricupito. Ricupito hit on 14 of 26 passes for 165 yards in last week's 25-14 loss to Hayward.

However, Washington has a young, inexperienced offensive line, which could provide Rushing and his mates with a very productive night's work.

Lincoln is another strong team from the SJAL and could give the Cowboys a tough go.

The Trojans lost many lettermen from last year's team which finished third in the league. That inexperience showed when Lincoln fell to St. Mary's 27-6 last week.

Halfback Craig Colvard could give the Cowboys trouble. He ran for 147 yards in 21 carries against St. Mary's.

Livermore's depth could be the difference. The Cowboys have 57 players on the varsity. In last week's 17-12 win over Castro Valley Livermore showed a strong running game.

Foothill could have its hand full with Northgate. The Broncos finished second in the Diabolo Valley Athletic League last season. They lost most of their top players but are still expected to field a strong team.

Despite losing a 21-0 decision to Vanden last week Foothill showed a potent offense, gaining over 200 yards. If they can equal that against the Broncos they would be in good shape.

California hopes to rebound from a frustrating loss to Benicia last week. The Grizzlies lost, 22-18 when a clipping penalty nullified a 99-yard touchdown run by Cal's Craig Miller.

Both San Ramon and Monte Vista are coming off impressive victories. San Ramon defeated Harry Ellis of Richmond 23-12 and Monte Vista edged Sunset of Hayward, 21-19.

Don end pumps up for title shot

Back in the dark ages, when "muscle-bound" was considered a valid theory, Steve Reeves freed the gladiators and Bobby Layne trained for the NFL season on countless sixers of good-ole Pearl, many coaches screamed that weight-lifting was a tool of the devil.

No sane athlete would go near a barbell more often than an occasional off-season, bravado-filled strength contest.

All that began to change in the early '60's, in part due to the well-publicized career of Steve "Sudden Death" Sabol, a flaky former Mr. Philadelphia who played well enough as a running back at Colorado College to earn all-Rocky Mountain Conference mention.

By now, the scare stories of middle-aged strongmen collapsing of heart attacks when their muscles mysteriously turned to fat are all but dead.

And a sixteen-year old Pleasanton youth is helping to nail the coffin shut.

Mike Krikorian, a two-sport athlete at Amador Valley High School, sets his sights on a new horizon Saturday night when he'll compete for the American Guild of Body Building's version of the Mr.

Teenage America title at California Hall in San Francisco.

Growing up in Salem, New Hampshire, Krikorian had dreams of pitching in the major leagues; thus joining Boston catcher Carlton Fisk as one of the few natives of that state in the majors. But now, Sergio Oliva has become more of an idol than Tony Oliva.

"Subconsciously, and I guess consciously too, I think that a better goal than making the big leagues would be to win a major bodybuilding title," he said before a recent workout at the Live-More health club, next door to the Alameda County Fairgrounds race track.

The 5-9½, 170-pound defensive end has earned a starting role with the Dons this fall without a let-up in his preparation for tomorrow's contest.

"I lift right through every sports season," he admits, "Although I lift pretty light during baseball." During the spring, Krikorian was the Dons' third pitcher behind all-East Bay choice Rob Wicks and senior Mike Garrigan. He also played in the outfield.

"It hasn't affected my play in either baseball or football, the only thing it does is take up a lot of time," he explained. "If you're taught right, you won't get all tight."

But since he took it up at age 12, bodybuilding has always come first for Mike.

"I like it because you're your own coach — you control what you want to do," he said, adding that he often spends long nights at the gym pumping iron and occasionally goes on binges of increasingly tough workouts. It's all for a reason.

"You're always making progress and that's really satisfying," Krikorian continued.

Although he missed some grid practice this week, Mike hasn't skipped his workouts. He made clear that if forced to make a choice, he'd forego football. "My coaches know I'm training for the contest," he said. "But if they didn't want me to, they could go ahead and kick me off the team — this is my most important sport."

That could be a wise preference, judging from what Krikorian's mentor, Don Camara of Livemore, has to say.

"This is just Mike's first contest," he began, "But I figure him to come in anywhere from third to fifth since this won't be quite as strong an attraction as an International Federation of Body Building or AAU event (those have been in existence longer and are thus predominate)."

If Krikorian does get a trophy in the 19-year olds and under division, Camara said, "It'll give him an advantage in future events. If not, Mike's a good enough sportsman that he can accept defeat or victory."

Determination ranks as Krikorian's biggest asset, according to Camara, a health instructor for 20 years, along with a smooth posing routine that will help him overcome the edge in experience some of his competitors might have.

"In a bodybuilding contest, you've got to present the judges and the audience with a physique in a way that is smooth and shows the work you've done," Camara explained. It's like a Miss America contest, she has to look her best and be talented."

Krikorian was also eager to debunk the myth that many bodybuilders are weaklings who pump their muscles up with hundreds of meaningless reps.

"They have to handle heavy weights to get in that kind of shape. It makes them big and powerful," he claimed, also taking on the "muscle-bound hulk" myth. "Bodybuilders are just as athletic or flexible as anyone else."

Despite the bright future predicted for him in the sport, Krikorian realizes he has a long way to go. That humbling point was brought home with a bang a couple weeks back when Ed Corney, a former Mr.

Universe, stopped in at the trackside gym.

"Here I come, strutting in with my girlfriend and all of the sudden, there he is," Mike said, recalling the strength magazine photo to come-to-life.

"He watched me pose," Krikorian said. "He told Don my chances are pretty good in this sort of a contest."

Participation in a sport that hasn't enjoyed the best of images doesn't upset Mike in the least. He shrugs off the full-body shave that goes with bodybuilding competition and has a very supportive group of friends.

"Every since my buddies have known me, I've been into this," he said. "They're all for me — some of them are going over to watch me Saturday."

And, Krikorian emphasized, several months of heavy workouts to ready himself for Saturday's event have not made him into some sort freakish brute.

As Mike put it, "It's a physique contest, not an animal show."

Lots of sweeps in volleyball

The Jumpers opened the Valley Community Services District Recreation Department volleyball season with a 15-6, 15-11, 17-15, sweep of Snap-On Tools at Dublin High School Monday night.

Laura Noble served well for the winners, at one point running off a string of five winning points. Bonnie Galloghy was a defensive standout and set up her team mates well.

Velda Lee Chick paced the losers with good defense and also sparked the Tool offense.

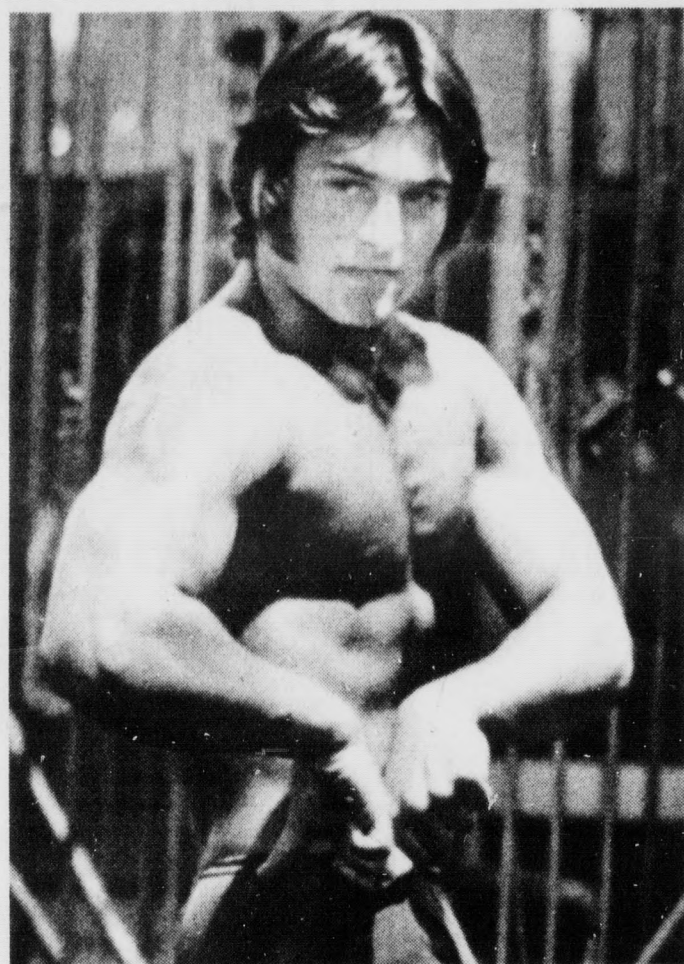

Round Table No. 2 also came away with a sweep, downing the Hexcel Honeycombs, 15-10, 15-2 and 15-2. Shirley Dean led the way with outstanding serves, getting offensive help from Carol Canfield. Fran Reikes was consistent with good sets.

Donna Caldwell played well defensively for the Combs.

Round Table No. 1 edged the Tri-Valley Brokers, 15-13 twice, before coming on for a 15-5 rout in the third set. Connie Owens served well, Jean Bolme led the defense and Carolyn Edwards contributed a few keys spikes for the winners.

Joanne Thorpe did well for Tri-Valley.

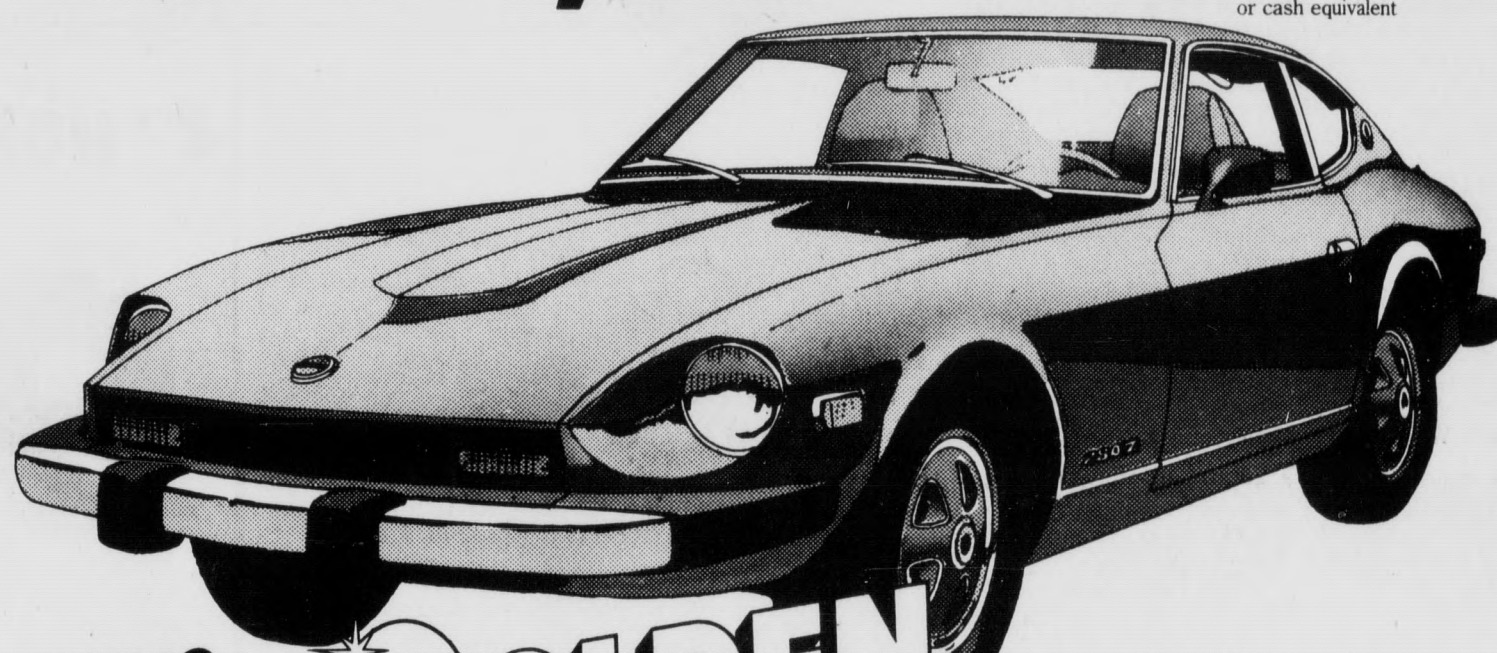

The Easy Overs lived up to their nickname winning easily over the Chartreuse Moose, 15-4, 15-10, 15-5.

Elders' crime fighting month

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND—A high crime rate that hits the elderly more severely than any other age group makes next month "Elders' Crime Prevention Month," county supervisors said this week.

The designation coincides with a series of crime prevention conferences starting late this month and continuing through October and subsequent months. The programs are being run by the county department of aging, said director of social services Librado Perez, who asked for the designation "because of the magnitude of the crime problem" among the elderly.

The national rate of personal larceny, according to the Congressional Committee on Aging, is 19 per 1,000 for the aged as compared to six per thousand for young people, he said.

A recent Louis Harris poll found that 47 per cent of those over 65 felt "fear of crime" was a serious personal problem for them.

The conferences are intended to encourage local programming and more seminars in the future. Times and dates of the conferences are to be announced.

Supervisors unanimously approved the resolution.

Hotline calls

PLEASANTON—Share yourself!

How? By becoming a listener for Hotline, the telephone crisis line.

The Hotline Help Center, located at 4361 Railroad Ave., offers many services besides a crisis line. It is a valley-wide, community-based program offering counseling to youth and their families on drugs and alcohol and related problems.

Listeners don't have to work at the Hotline office, but may answer calls at home. The Hotline listener deals with a wide variety of problems.

Director Candy Ingram says, "We will learn together, how to listen to other people, give them alternatives, refer them to agencies that can help. And in the process, learn a little more about yourself."

The next listeners' training session begins Wednesday, Sept. 22, 7:30 p.m. at the Hotline offices on Railroad Avenue. Further information is available from the staff at 462-5544.

SR Health Center talk on diabetes

SAN RAMON — Diabetes, now the nation's third-ranking cause of death, will be a topic of the first program in the Family Medical Center's "Health Dialogue" series.

The free program, "Coping with Diabetes and Hypoglycemia," will be presented Wednesday morning, Sept. 22, in the community lecture room of the center at 9260 Alcosta Blvd.

The talk begins at 10 a.m. Lionel M. Pfefer, M.D., a specialist in internal medicine, will explain the general symptoms, diagnosis and treatment of the two diseases. Evelyn Bakken, a registered dietician, will discuss food selection and preparation, meal planning, and how to enjoy a variety of foods by following an exchange system.

Films will be used to illustrate the talks and a question period will follow the program. Recipes, exchange lists, diet counseling information and booklets on symptoms and diet will also be available.

Diabetes is caused by too little production of the hormone insulin in the pancreas, while hypoglycemia is the result of too much insulin. According to the National Commission on Diabetes, the disease and its complications cause more than 300,000 deaths annually, placing it behind heart disease and cancer and ahead of accidents as a cause of death. Currently, diabetes is increasing at a rate of about 6 per cent per year.

There are an estimated 10 million Americans who are diabetics at present. About half are not aware that they have the disease. The overall incidence has increased 50 per cent since 1965, according to the American Diabetic Association.

About 90 per cent of diagnosed diabetes is the adult onset form, and about 10 per cent is so-called juvenile diabetes, although it may strike persons of any age.

While adult onset diabetes, often undetected for years because of its slow development, frequently runs in families, it has also been found that the chance of becoming diabetic doubles for every 20 per cent of excess weight.

A major goal has become the education of diabetics, and the public in general, about proper eating habits.

A proper diet is also important in controlling hypoglycemia.

So, what's new?

Eight new babies have been added to Valley families, according to a report from Kaiser Hospital, Walnut Creek.

Arrivals in September include a girl born Sept. 3 to Loretta and Gary Asbe, 1380 Juliet Court, Livermore.

Sept. 4, girls were born to Robert and Sherry Flowerdew of 1183 Holmes Court, Livermore, and to Terry and Mary Alger of 1338 Aster Lane, Livermore.

Sept. 5, Sandra and Joseph Detata of 7584 Northland Place, San Ramon, had a boy; Paul and Sharon Ghore, 7541 Interlachen Ave., San Ramon, a girl.

Sept. 6, Roy and Lendel Stanley of 7029 Tory Court, Dublin, a girl; Carolyn and Ronald Greenslade, 1336 South Livermore Ave., Livermore, a boy.

Sept. 7, Sharon and Don Wentz, 936 Venus Way, Livermore, a girl.

At Valley Memorial Hospital, Walnut Creek, arrivals included:

Sept. 7: Kevin and Kathleen Wilson, 1537 Arlington Road, Livermore, a girl; Stephen and Janis Schweiger, 242 North K St., Livermore, a boy; Dennis and Janice Luepke, 1529 Oslo Court, Livermore, a girl.

Spt. 8: Kenneth and Deborah Hart, 5665 Charlotte Way, Livermore, a boy.

Sept. 9: Mel and Janet Ralston, 1574 Heather Lane, Livermore, a girl; Fred and Michele Freitas, 476 Malibu Court, Livermore, a girl.

Sept. 10: Robert and Patricia Riley, 4143 Davis Way, Livermore, a girl; John and Mary Sharkey, 3330 Harpers Ferry Court, Pleasanton, a boy.

Sept. 11, Jaffrey and Christine Early, 3250 Burgundy Drive, Pleasanton, a girl.

Merritt seminar

Seven Valley physicians will take part today in the 31st annual Samuel Merritt Hospital medical seminar in the Kaiser Center Auditorium and at Samuel Merritt Hospital, Oakland.

Local doctors taking part will be D.C. Pagaduan of Dublin, Grace and Henry Devnich and Hian H. Kwee, all of Livermore, and William Chew, J. Hallam Cope and Fenimore E. Davis, all of Pleasanton.

Opening day speakers include Dr. Francis A. Sooy, chancellor of the University of California Medical Center.

Lectures on heart

SAN RAMON — Learn more about heart disease through a series of lectures at the Family Medical Center, 9260 Alcosta Blvd.

The class meets 7 - 9:30 p.m. in the community lecture room on Thursday evenings through Oct. 21.

Causes, risk factors and preventive measures concerning heart disease will be discussed. The course will be enriched with films, demonstrations and class discussions as well as lectures.

There is no charge for California residents taking the class, which is offered on a credit or no-credit basis.

Teachers will be Barbara Johnson, registered dietician, coordinator; Claude Burdick, M.D.; Frank Hesse, M.D.; Lionel Pfeifer, M.D.; G.E. Renner, M.D. and Evelyn Bakken, dietician.

The class is co-sponsored by Diablo Valley College, Family Medical Center and the Contra Costa Heart Association. Residents of Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin (part of the Chabot College district) will need a waiver from Chabot to take the course for credit.

Pamphlet on pill mixing

Do you take medicine for high blood pressure, tension, headache — or any other reason?

Whether it's prescription drugs or just an over-the-counter remedy like aspirin, never take more than one kind of medication without asking your doctor.

Even laxatives and cold pills can harm you if taken in combination with certain other drugs. Drinking while on some types of medication can be harmful, too.

In a free pamphlet, "Mixing Medicines," the Food and Drug Administration gives advice that can help you protect yourself from this hazard. A free copy is available from Consumer Information Center, Dept. 50, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

When your physician gives you a prescription, be very sure he or she understands what other drugs you're taking. Also ask whether drinking is a safe thing to do while taking the new drug.

Don't take medicine that has been prescribed for someone else, it may be totally wrong for you or for your ailment.

Over-the-counter medicines are required by FDA to contain information about drug interactions. But these warnings don't call the drugs by their brand names. Instead the labels give the official generic name of the drug; so find out the generic names of any drugs you may be taking and for new prescriptions.

"Mixing Medicines" is one of more than 250 selected federal consumer publications listed in the free catalog, "Consumer Information," available from the Colorado address above.

Where to learn sign language

More sign language is spoken in this country than Chinese.

"Sign language, used by most deaf people, is the fourth most commonly used language in the United States, after English, Spanish and Italian," says D. Wayne Smith, chief of the department of speech pathology and audiology at the Alameda County's Fairmont Hospital.

For anyone who needs to converse with the deaf — from doctors to salespeople — Fairmont Hospital in San Leandro in conjunction with the San Lorenzo Adult School, are jointly offering courses in manual communication including lip reading, finger spelling, body language, facial expression and gestures as well as sign language. The teacher is Betty Jo Lependorf.

Classes meet from 10 a.m. until noon, the beginning group on Tuesdays and the advanced group Mondays. The fee for either group is $4.

Classes meet in Room 124, H Building, 15400 Foothill Blvd., San Leandro (just off Interstate 580). Details are available from the staff at 577-1579.

Author speaks in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — Keith Abbott, author of the recent novel "Gush," will talk about publishing at 8 p.m. today at Century House, 2401 Santa Rita Rd.

Abbott, who lives in Albany, will talk about self-publishing and small press publishing at the meeting of the Writers' Circle. Admission is free and open to the public. The Writers' Circle is a valley-wide group of poets, novelists and short story writers who meet to read and discuss their work and other literature.

Abbott has contributed poems to many small periodicals including Poetry Northwest and Choice and is familiar with all aspects of the small press movement. "Gush" is about unemployment in California and was published by Blue Wind Press.

Six new faces at Chabot

The Chabot College-Valley Campus will have six new faculty members when the autumn quarter commences Monday.

At orientation activities this past week, a total of 42 new instructors (Valley and Hayward campuses) were welcomed by Dr. Reed L. Buffington, president, an explanation of the Faculty senate was given by its president, Ray Edwards, and walking tours were conducted of the Valley and Hayward campuses.

On Thursday, Dr. Dale Tillery of the University of California discussed the future of Community College education in California.

A meeting of new faculty, returning faculty, and management staff is scheduled this afternoon at the Valley Campus on Collier Canyon Road.

New Valley Campus faculty members are Catherine N. Potyten, English; Karen B. Pihl, biological sciences and chemistry; Suzanne S. Long, English; James A.R. Forcier, business; Nancy E. Menken, librarian; Adolfo M. Rivas, counselor.

Chabot College will again sponsor a School Tutoring for Elementary Pupils (STEP) program this year.

Sessions will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on Wednesdays at Lorenzo Manor School, 18025

Bengal Ave., San Lorenzo, from Oct. 6 to Jan. 24 and Jan. 5 to Jan. 26.

The program, sponsored by the Chabot College Office of Community Services for the past nine years, trains adult volunteer tutors and parents to work with local elementary students on basic reading, writing and mathematics skills.

The non-credit, tuition-free seminar relates to STEP programs in the Castro Valley, Hayward, Livermore, Murray, Pleasanton, San Leandro and San Lorenzo School districts.

Mrs. Elva Cooper, the program leader, holds a Masters in Elementary Education and has been the STEP program coordinator for the past five years.

Ron Morgan, nationally-known floral designer and arranger, will offer a unique floral design community interest program at Chabot College - Valley Campus beginning Sept. 22 and extending through Dec. 15.

The class will meet in Room 402 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

The course is designed to acquaint students with the art of floral design appropriate for the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

Morgan was one of five floral designers invited nationally to decorate the White House during the current Bicentennial observance.

Lucky winner

Bill Weigel was the lucky winner of a CB radio in the Loma Alta Playground Action Committee's recent benefit drawing. Proceeds from the drawing went toward the committee's goal of $4,800 to buy tot lot equipment for the park. Committee members making the award from left are Cheryl Wilson, Debra Vigil and Sue Twomey.

Big boss speaks at Chabot

LIVERMORE — Elizabeth Manning Deedy, chairwoman of the Board of Governors, California Community Colleges, will speak at the Chabot College-Valley Campus this morning at 10:15.

Mrs. Deedy's topic will be "Focus on the Future." The talk is open to the public.

Appointed to the Board of Governors by former Governor Ronald Reagan in 1973, she has served on the California Postsecondary Commission, and was a trustee of the Marin Community College District for 13 years. Her other affiliations include five years on the Mill Valley Elementary School District board, twice serving as president; former president and member of the Marin County School Boards Association; legislative and finance and New Directions committees of California Junior College Association.

Possessor of a Masters in psychology from the University of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Deedy was formerly assistant to the Dean of Women at the university.

SR adult programs

SAN RAMON — New classes such as catering, legal rights, taxation made simple, speed reading and understanding learning disabilities, will highlight this year's San Ramon Valley Schools Adult Education program.

Registration for the fall quarter will be held the week of Sept. 20-24 at the Adult Education Center, 151 Love Lane, Danville. Students may register during the day from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. and evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 at the Adult Education Center only. A tuition fee of $4 per class for the term will be required upon enrollment.

Adult Education principal, Chuck Zadra, is encouraging students to register during the designated week, as most classes have enrollment limits and will close when those limits are reached.

"We expect to have a good turnout this quarter," Zadra stated. He added that the new classes should spark more community interest.

Classes for the fall term begin Sept. 27. A list of the classes to be offered and the time and place for each will be sent throughout the San Ramon Valley Unified School District within the week.

Night school

When Joe Maldonado got out of the Army in 1971, he wanted to go to college but was afraid his skills weren't up to college-level work.

"I just didn't want to jump in," he remembers. A 1968 graduate of James Logan High School, he returned there as a student in its adult education program to get back into the swing. "Things came pretty fast and I found I was enjoying school," he says.

Finally last September he enrolled in Chabot College evening classes in English, math and physiology, all offered in extension courses at his old high school.

"I plan to take the majority of my Chabot classes at Logan," the 26-year-old Vietnam veteran explained. "It's a 10-minute drive from my home and I never have any problems finding parking space. The teachers have been fair and always willing to help."

Joe has his hopes set on a degree in electronics engineering. He works days as a serviceman for a water company. This fall, he plans to take basic mathematics and to brush up on his Spanish. Classes start Monday.

It's not necessary to drive into Hayward after work in order to pursue an education at Chabot. Evening classes are offered at the Valley Campus in Livermore, at Granada High in Livermore and Amador High in Pleasanton.

Registration information is available from the Chabot staff at 782-3000.

Foothill parents' meeting

PLEASANTON — Parents of Foothill High School senior class members interested in school activities and the school's first-ever graduation next June are invited to a meeting Wednesday, Sept. 22.

The meeting will take place in the Foothill library at 7:30 p.m.

Joan Mackay, newly appointed assistant administrator, will meet with parents.

Sept. 22 is also the day for freshmen class officer petitions to be circulated. Fresh elections are scheduled for Sept. 29.
